

Dear Family

Oct. 24 2011

So this week was an awesome one. We got 3 new investigators and 3 new baptismal dates. Oh also transfers were last week. Sadly sis Matia left but we now have sis Honey. She is so funny. I love her tons.

Anyways so right now we are watching the movie "ON THE WAY HOME" very interesting.

So I do our new investigators her name is Christy. She has had a crazy life.

She has tried so many times to ask for forgiveness from those she hurt, has never been able to apologize to all those she hurt. She knows God gave her her son to sacrifice, but now we have told her about the promises of baptism, she wants to work towards getting baptized on Nov. 5th which will be interesting since she smokes a lot.

But we have faith she can do it. Also we have to bike everyday for the rest of the week. We only have 100 miles-ish left for the next 10 days or something like that. It's very cool. But we love biking and now the weather is getting cooler it makes it even more enjoyable. By the way it's like freezing out here. I'm going to die when I come home. Oh so there's not too much going on out here just a lot of walking talking and preaching.

Sis Mills and I are halfway to standard for our area it's crazy.

We are working hard, but I know that we have to work even harder.

I can already feel I'm going to be in this area for a long time at least through January. I may even trade next transfer but I'll get over my fear of that. By the way it is so funny how much you change here and you can tell and you can't do anything about it. I have turned into such a girly girl it's sick.

The other day I talked to a guy on the street and was telling him how cool the mormon.org website was. I was all bubbly and happy. It was so out of character I was in shock.

I wasn't sure what happened. It was a scary moment.
